“Artificial intelligence” is the legal-tech buzzword of the day. Many companies are rushing to apply AI to the contracts process. That makes sense as the contracts process is notoriously inefficient and hard to manage and a lot is at stake.

But AI is a methodology, what you can achieve with it depends on how you apply it. In particular, you can't fix contracts with just technology. You also need the x factor: expertise.

In this presentation, Kevin Miller and Ken Adams will discuss how LegalSifter uses AI to give its customers greater control over their contracts, and how Ken's unique expertise, and the expertise of other LegalSifter advisors, drives LegalSifter's AI.

The Sponsors

LegalSifter applies artificial intelligence to your contracts process both before and after you sign a contract. LegalSifter reviews draft contracts in seconds, tells you whether specific issues are present or missing, and offers advice prepared by LegalSifter's experts or your own. And Sifter Concierge is a program for clients that either do not want to buy or build a contract-lifecycle-management database for their signed contracts or who don't have the capacity to manage the one they already have.

Modern Contract helps companies use artificial intelligence, machine learning, and natural language processing to make contract review more effective.
